True to Our Heritage

In two years, Chaffey High School will be 75 years old, and some of its structures will be 103 years old. In all that time, Chaffey has developed some valuable traditions.

After four long years, Seniors have always graduated in a traditional ceremony and burst of enthusiasm, releasing them on to greater things.

Freshmen are traditionally the "low men on the totem pole," yet they grow strong with spirit to pass on to future generations.

Chaffey's pride has always been represented by the strength and stamina of the tiger, the mascot which keeps our fire burning bright.

Recently the classes have battled, trying to find the most spirited, starting the new tradition of class competition.

Thus far, and hopefully for a long time to come, we shall remain True to Our Heritage.

Chaffey's tiger statue, the symbol of the school, finally enjoys peace after years of abuse. △

The new "football tiger," erected in 1983, displays the dates of Chaffey's football games. △

As always, Chaffey's tigers helped to spark a certain loyalty and spirit among students at CHS. Chaffey's pride was displayed through the many tigers on campus. They appeared in the form of statues, murals, wall hangings and of course, the Tiger Mascots. One of these, Shannon Brennan, expressed what it meant to her to represent Chaffey. "To me, representing Chaffey meant promoting school spirit and making the tiger more of a tradition rather than another figure in the Pep Squad."

Chaffey's tiger was present as early as 1915. As always, the most renowned tiger on the campus was the ceramic statue located in the foyer of Gardiner Spring Auditorium. Sculpted by Claremont artist Bette Davenport Ford, the tiger was a gift to Chaffey by the class of 1960. It was placed outside the G.W.S. Auditorium where it served as an Ontario landmark. Although its ear was knocked off in 1964, the tiger survived the next decade with relatively little harm, except that inflicted by successive coats of paint applied by rival high schools. It was two attacks to the head of the tiger in 1977, and nearly $3,500 in repairs, which prompted its move inside the foyer of G.W.S. and off of the endangered species list.

Continuing the tradition, the tiger legacy helped keep Chaffey spirited and True to Our Heritage.

Ray,
 And I hope you

A Personality All Our Own

More than anything else, the buildings at Chaffey reflected the character and personality of our heritage. Chaffey's buildings ranged in age from one hundred-one years (Tower Hall) to ten years (Math-Science).

Most students never took time out of their busy schedules to notice the ornate architecture on the campus. From the designs on the ceilings of Spring Auditorium and North Hall to the newest mural on the wall of the outside arena, Chaffey showed a personality all its own.

Some students paid little attention to Chaffey's exceptional age, design or size. Senior Carissa Mace testified, "I'd rather go to an old school than a new one. Chaffey's age gives it character."

Our "character" was what made us unique. In the older buildings there was no air-conditioning, and the only heat was provided by radiators; a situation which often left us sweltering on hot days and freezing on cold days. Chaffey's structure was unique, in that many of the walls are a foot thick, with pipes and electrical systems exposed inside the classrooms. And the Boiler Room, what is that thing for? The Boiler Room provided heat for all the buildings which still used steam heat, as well as providing a student bulletin board.

Those are the things which made Chaffey truly unique. Our heritage gave us reason to pity those poor Etiwandans in their brand-new, pre-fab school.

After many restorations, Chaffey's library stands as one of the more ornate facades.

These Freshmen girls proudly display that they too have spirit. Δ

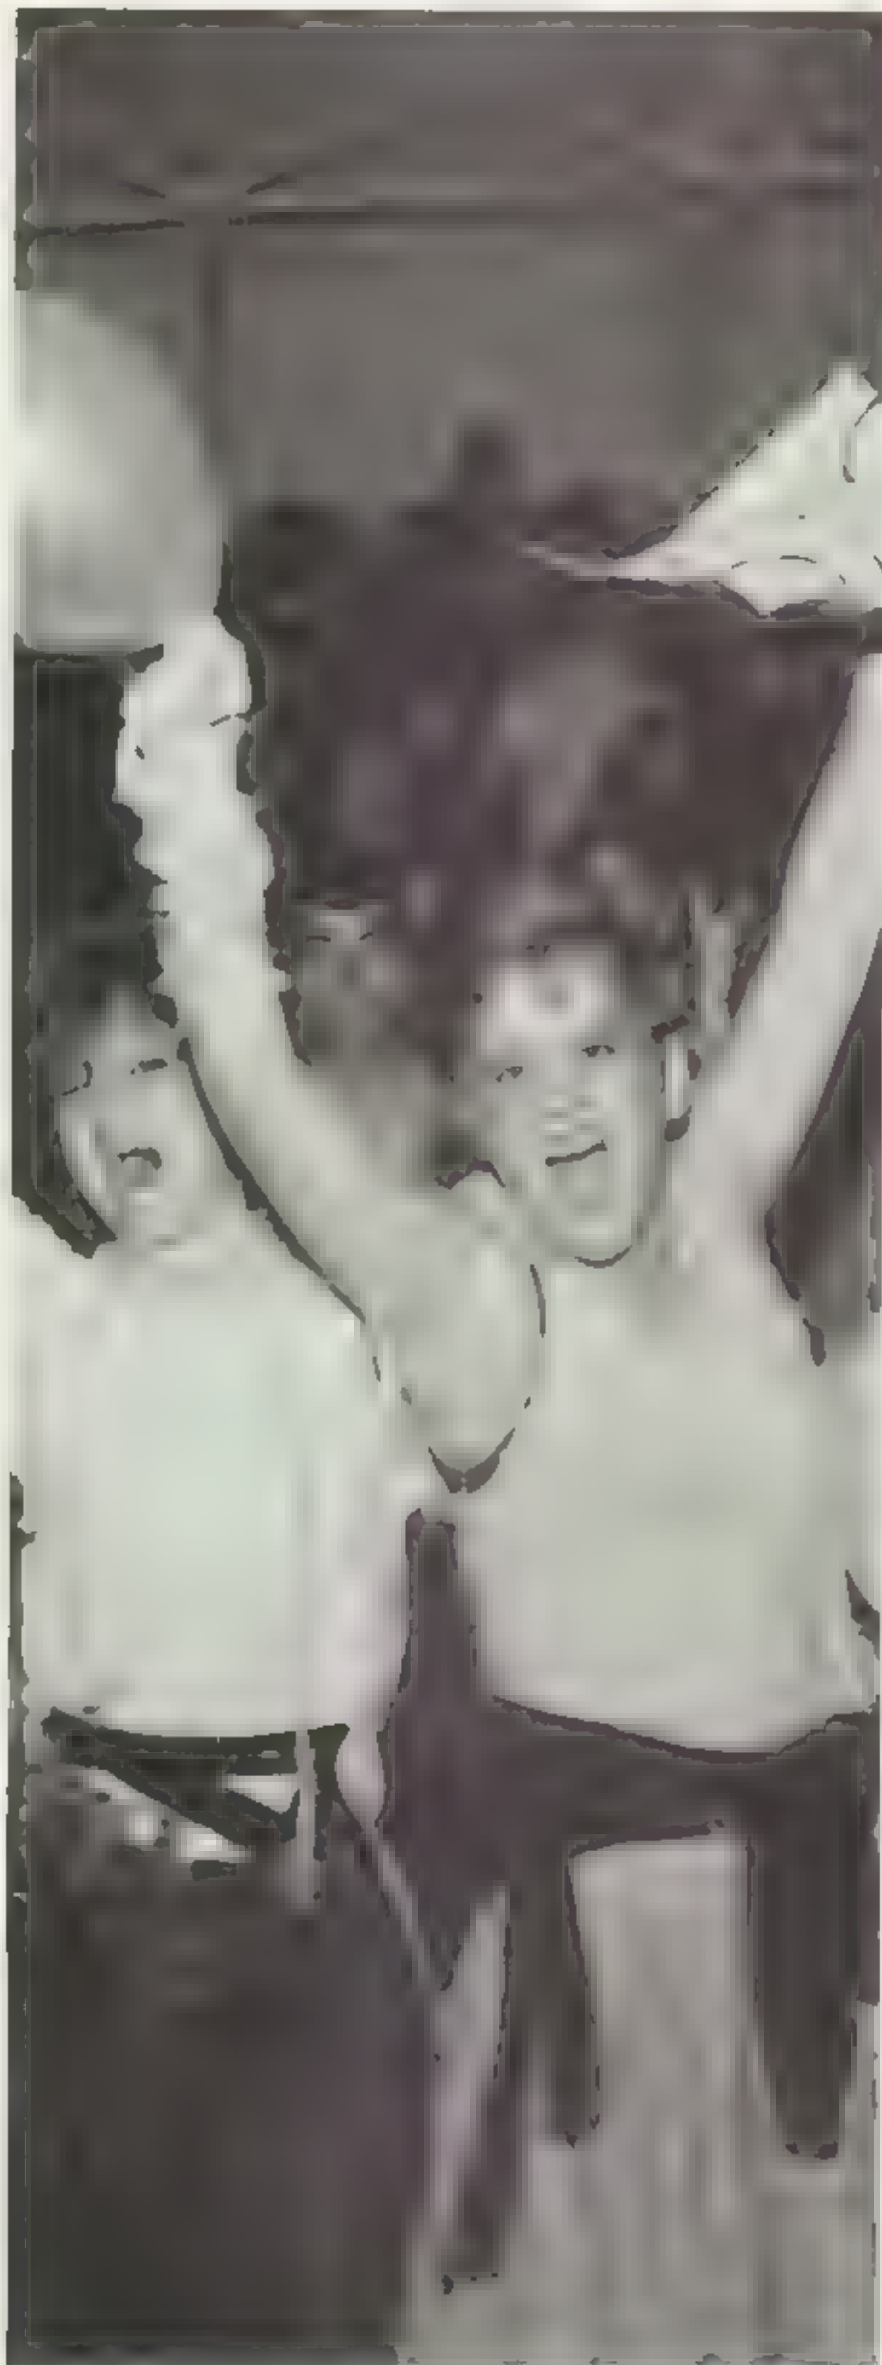

The class of 85 loudly proclaims "Seniors -- we rule!" Δ

Although Chaffey's principal, Dr. David O. Stine, was a newcomer, he held a firm belief in maintaining, and even increasing, school spirit. Dr. Stine emphasized, "The morale of a student body is reflected in its school spirit. We've got excellent school spirit because we have a staff willing to work with students. We're good and getting better."

An essential spirit booster and ever-present tradition was pep rallies. Aimed at boosting spirit for various athletic events, rallies led by the Pep Squad and Executive Council included the entire student body in class competition. Junior Senator, Rod Small, partly responsible for class competition, expressed his thoughts about rallies. "It's one of the things that I like best about Chaffey High School."

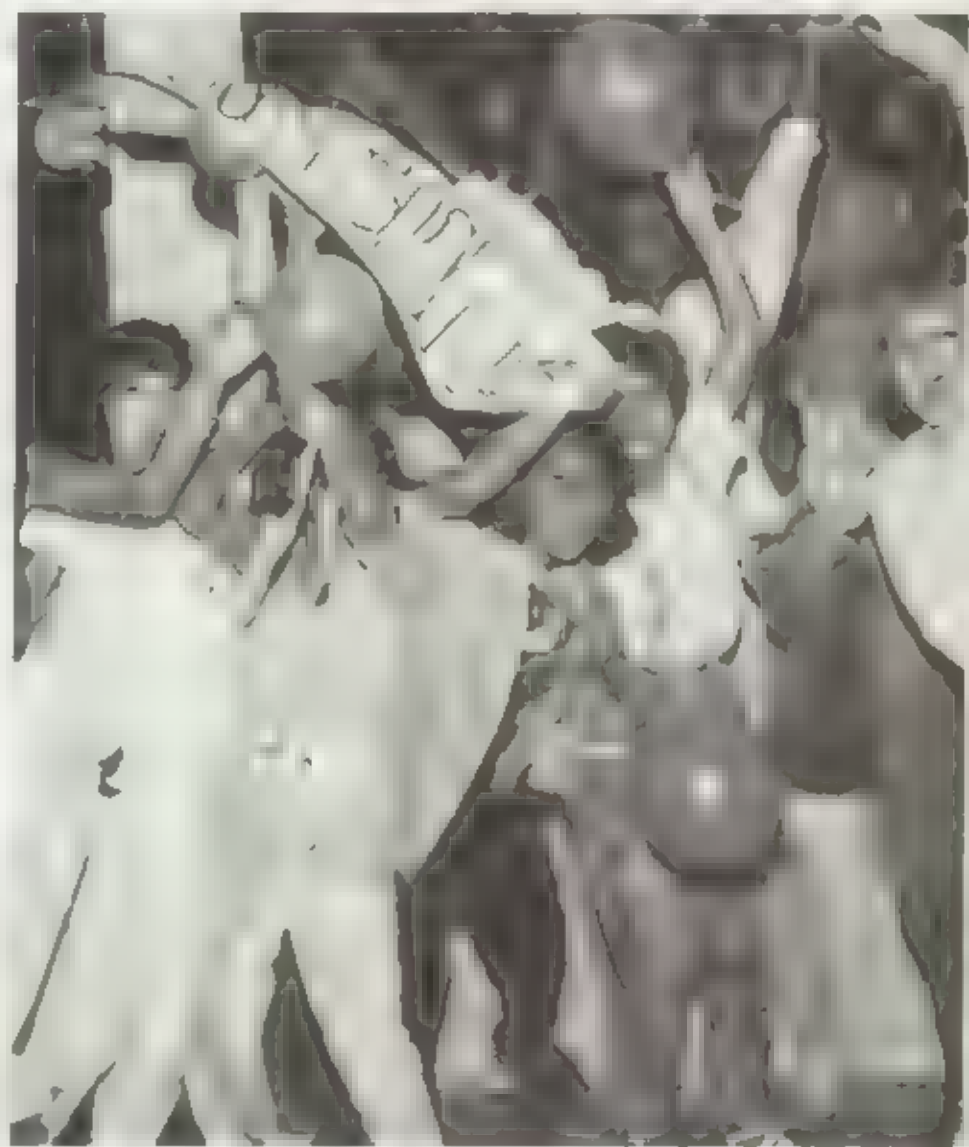

Class Competition has been a tradition since 1978. Points for each class were accumulated in events such as spirit night, class yells, class participation in ASB card sales, elections, and class competition rallies. A relatively new tradition was the assignment of colors to each class. Seniors, Juniors, Sophomores, and Freshmen, clad in red, blue, green and yellow respectively, turned out at class competition rallies to show their colors. The class that accumulated the most points was dubbed "Class of the Year." Traditionally, this was the Senior class.

Spirit, an ever-present legacy was carried on yet another year at Chaffey High School. As class colors were proudly displayed, and points were accumulated in the quest for "Class of the Year," we remained colorfully True To Our Heritage.

Freshmen Get Lost

Freshmen learn to find their points in the human pyramid competition.

It's the first day of school and 790 brand-new students flock the campus, innocently blending in with the other 1,902 veterans of Chaffey life.

Traditionally, Freshmen get lost. It was very easy on a campus as large as Chaffey, with a room number system which made little sense.

More prominent than the traditions of the Freshmen were the traditions of the other classes regarding the Freshmen. It was left to the upperclassmen to instill pride and enthusiasm in the new students. It was also up to them to make sure that all Freshmen who asked directions were sent as far from their goal as possible.

Freshmen had always been an important part of the Chaffey student body; they were left to carry on school traditions as they rose up through the classes, and passed them on to future Freshmen. If upperclassmen would have failed with just one Freshmen class, some valuable traditions may have been lost.

In addition, Freshmen provided the Sophomores with someone to be superior to. Although they were often the butt of our pranks, the Freshmen retained their pride and that traditional Chaffey spirit, with the knowledge that soon they would be the upperclassmen, picking on a new group of Freshmen.

◁ Freshman schedules show little variation, each having P.E., World History and English.

Forever Tigers

One of the most predictable traditions was the graduation of the Senior class. After four years of struggling to pass exams, with just enough Friday nights to keep them sane, the Seniors reached their goal

Graduation brought with it many traditions. Among these were the Ivy Chain and Grad Nite. The Ivy Chain consisted of the top thirty to thirty-five girls of the Junior Class with the highest academic standings. The purpose of the Ivy Chain was to form a line through which the seniors walked as they received their diplomas

Another tradition which accompanied graduation was Grad Nite. For the past forty-five years, Disneyland has hosted the evening festivities which, though one may have had to fight the crowds, seemed like an appropriate way to release the pressures of the formal graduation ceremony. Only seniors, or those accompanied by senior dates were admitted to the park.

Although the Class of 1985 won't be back to the familiar buildings and campus of Chaffey High School, their failures and triumphs will remain indefinitely in their hearts, as they will be Forever Tigers

'Only in California

The summer of '84 was a very eventful one for the residents of Southern California. The long-building anxiety over the Olympics was finally let loose, and Chaffey students showed as much pride in America as they have in their school. Chaffey's cheerleading squad joined other Chaffey students and Ontario residents to witness the passing of the torch on Euclid Avenue and to show their spirit and pride

Despite the absence of our biggest competitors, Russia and East Germany, our pride burst forth. Some athletes felt a loss at their absence, but others ignored it. Peter Vidmar said prior to the games, "I won't miss them, our biggest competition has always been the Japanese." Two weeks later, Vidmar took two gold medals in gymnastics.

Any bad feelings at all were forgotten as the U.S. took 83 gold medals and broke 9 Olympic and world records. In addition, the fourteen missing countries have other nations which had never before won medals a chance to shine.

The closing ceremonies, held at the L.A. Coliseum will go down in history as the most extravagant of all time. "Only in California!" seemed to be the sentiment of the audience, both the group at the Coliseum and the millions watching on television. The entertainment ranged from a traditional Korean dance to a visit from a spaceship

The Olympics provided Chaffey students with an outlet for their abundant enthusiasm, and a chance to show their pride in their country.

First in Spirit

Though the Senior class was not the class of the year, they still acted like they were. The Senior cabinet was in charge of promoting spirit for the Senior class. Whether it was hanging a dummy to represent seniors or dressing up Gina Webb like a red devil — it was spirit. As Senior treasurer, Tim Walborn, said, "Even though we were constantly losing we still kept up our spirit."

Sometimes, though, the spirit got a little out of hand. Though not formally blamed on the Seniors, one or more individuals spray-painted a car with red paint. Disregarding who was to blame, the Seniors had to pay $43.00 to fix the car.

Think of Me

Looking back on the past four years, it feels strange to realize that this is my last year. I've struggled hard to get through the past three. All the while I learned more — I grew up more. I remember my freshman year. I was so lost. It was a long time before I found any of my friends. Then came my sophomore year. It was the year to get involved and have fun. Then came my junior year. The year to think of my future and my life. Now I have come to my Senior year — my last year. The year I have spent preparing myself for life. Whether I go to college, to work, or somewhere else, I will never forget Chaffey High School — and I hope it never forgets me.

Powder Puff Reappears

Another memorable event that we can all look back on was the Powder Puff Football game. Executive Council revived the old time tradition that was discontinued from Chaffey several years ago.

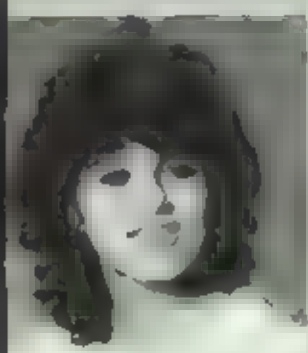

It was on December 14 when the Junior and Senior girls got on Graber Field to show off their "talent" and to show pride in their class. Anita Duran commented that, "It was great! I didn't even break one fingernail!"

The game was an exciting event especially when the Seniors came back at the fourth quarter to defeat the Juniors 13 to 6. Mary Gross stated that, "the Senior victory was not the only high point in the game, playing it was."

If not for the marvelous coaching staff that the Senior team had, it might have been a loss for the Seniors. One of the Senior coaches, Armando Leyva said, "It took a lot of time and hard work, but it was worth it."

It wasn't just a blast for the girls who participated, but also for the boys who cheered on the field. Senior cheerleader Scott Carver said, "It was a lot of fun, but it took a long time for my hair to grow back on my legs."

Hopefully Powder Puff Football will again continue to be a tradition in the years to come.

Being a Senior

*A*s a Senior, one gets advantages. Besides the fact that the Seniors are the top class at the school, it is their last year of school. But what is the best thing about being a Senior...?

Sally Wheeler noted, "You get to graduate sooner!" Alba Escamilla thought, "It's getting out — FINALLY!" Gina Webb added it's "Knowing the best is yet to come." Robert Taylor quipped "Knowing we don't have to return in the spring." Paul Wilson thought it's "Realizing that this is my last year of free education." Sandy Bakkila exclaimed it's "Being a part of the ruling class." Rene Martinez, an early riser, commented it's "Knowing that next year we won't have to get up early." Richard Beutter knew it was a time for, "Enjoying the ease of high school compared to the next four years in college!" Tracy King seemed to think that it was, "Not being looked down upon and being able to go out with college men."

If you had picked any restaurant in the area, no doubt you would have seen a number of Chalfev's students working there. McDonald's, Bullwinkles, Vince's, and many others. In fact, many worked at Carl's Jr., Del Taco, and Taco Bell. Whether they made tacos or cut pizzas, most of them seemed to think work was rather fun.

Although the minimum wage was only $3.35 an hour, students still managed to buy clothes, maybe make car payments and possibly they had enough left over to pay for gas. Occasionally they were able to go out to eat at one of the restaurants where their friends worked. There may have been a lot of complaining about not having enough money on their paycheck, but most were grateful just to have the little money that they did have. As Eunjo Kim put it, "It's hard to make ends meet, but it would be a lot harder if I didn't have a job at all."

In addition to the financial benefits and the opportunity to have fun, the world of part-time work was also very demanding, taking their toll on a student's grades. Some students had to enroll in Work Experience which enabled them to work late hours, but this was a disadvantage and accounted for the dark circles under some student's eyes.

Though there were some disadvantages to having a part-time job, there were also a lot of advantages. When asked what she liked most about her part-time job, Cathy Corby replied, "The most fun thing is being able to work with your friends — and being able to make new ones."

The Senior Survey is a relatively new tradition at Chaffey. Since 1978 Seniors have been asked to select members of their class which best fit the categories on the ballot. These categories have ranged in number from six to sixteen. The editors decide which categories will appear in each year's ballot. Here are this year's categories and the seniors which were selected in them.

Alter — Egos in Government

"An honor and an inspiration," replied Rene Martinez in regard to Boys' State. Rene was one of our nine hundred and fifty male representatives to Boys' State, and Jackie Bishop was the representative from Chaffey High School to Girls' State. Both Rene and Jackie heard about Boys'/Girls' State through a school bulletin when they were juniors and were ultimately chosen as Chaffey High School's representatives. Some characteristics that contributed to the American Legion's decision while judging each applicant were school participation and the amount of enthusiasm expressed by each individual. Boys' State was sponsored by the American Legion and Girls' State was sponsored by the American Legion Auxiliary.

Boys'/Girls' State was a week long seminar during the summer on a Sacramento State Campus. Its purpose was to educate young Americans about the functions of American government. Its objective was to set up a city, county, and state governments as quickly as possible. Although Jackie and Rene were there during different weeks of the summer, their experiences and activities were very similar. They both lived in a dormitory on the Sacramento State Campus which they shared with the other representatives from different high schools. Each dormitory represented a county, within the counties there were cities which were usually on separate floors on the dormitory building. The citizens of each city elected a mayor, police chief, fire chief, city attorney, and city clerk. For most of the week, the students spent their time running their cities. They also had to choose a political affiliation. Rene was a Whig and held the position of Inspector on the Board Of Elections for his city. He stated that representing Chaffey at the Hugh O'Brian Leadership Seminar as a sophomore is what encouraged him to try for Boys' State.

Jackie was a Tory and acted as the Police Commissioner of her city and was also a member of a Mock Trial jury. When asked how she felt this opportunity contributed to her high school years, Jackie responded, "Well, I received a better understanding of our government system and how it is run. I also felt a tremendous amount of patriotism generated between us. But I think my favorite part was establishing friendships with other representatives."

Boys' State Rene Martinez

Girls' State Jackie Bishop

"We really don't spend all of our time in the library," insists Jackie Bishop of sh and Rene Martinez.

Battle of the Wits

After countless hours of coaching days of grueling after-school practice and a tedious over-all workout "the team" was finally ready to take arms against the competition. However, they were not necessarily gifted athletes, but rather possessed an expertise in the area of academics. This gifted group was Chaffey's 1984-85 Academic Decathlon team.

Coached by Ted Reeves, the team underwent a great deal of tutoring from a group of generous staff members in the areas of speech, math, English, social science, science, economics, and fine arts. Participants were also required to read Magtrends, and other literature such as Time magazine and Business Week. Team members were also required to prepare a speech, have an oral interview, and write an impromptu essay.

The culmination of this endless preparation finally arrived November 17, 1984 at California State University, San Bernardino. There, after an address by County Superintendent, Charles Terrell, participants set off to test their knowledge. Of this tedious day of tests, team member Kate Arutunian joked, "Okay, Reeves you said this was going to be fun. Are we having fun yet?"

Chaffey, though not emerging victorious did fare well in the competition. Winners included Ninette Duran in the essay competition, Mike Fuller in social studies, Barnet Hartston in social science, math and overall competition, and Laura Vaught in the oral interview. All team members were awarded plaques of recognition from the Ontario Kiwanis Club.

Barnet Hartston grasped the spirit of the competition and expressed the feelings of the team as a whole. "Oh! What a day! I'm glad it's over."

Coach Ted Reeves was largely responsible for encouraging and inspiring the team.

FAME was a program designed this past year to recognize students who completed 30 units in one specified area of study either in science, art, business, foreign language, home economics, industrial education or performing arts. There was also a requirement that each student maintained a 2.0 grade point average.

Liz Cortez liked the idea of the program because it gave students special recognition for pursuing one field of interest.

FAME proved to be a worthwhile program that should be carried on for many more years at Chaffey.

Boy and Girl

In order to be chosen Boy or Girl of the Month, one had to be an outstanding citizen in the community, as well as being a good student at Chaffey

The applicant had to fill out a questionnaire that asked such things as community service, services performed for the betterment of the school, awards or special recognitions, and school participation and offices held

The applications were examined by judges, who rated each applicant on a scale of one to five, five being the best. The averages were then taken and the twenty winners were chosen

Later, two of the twenty winners were chosen for Boy and Girl of the Year

Boy and Girl of the Year

Donny Brubaker — Donny was chosen Boy of the Year for his commitment to the academic and athletic programs. Being a member of the basketball program for four years, a varsity team member for two years and a varsity football team member one year, showed his determination to participate athletically. While participating athletically, Donny has maintained a 4.0 G.P.A. for four years. As a junior he was chosen Chaffey's representative to the prestigious Southern California Youth Citizenship Seminar at Pepperdine University and was also chosen the outstanding chemistry student awarded at the All School Awards Ceremony. Besides academics and athletics, Donny volunteered his time as a Fasti Staff member two years. As a senior he acted as Sports Editor for the 1985 Fasti. Donny was also selected to the ASB office of Athletic Commissioner as a junior. Few students have maintained such high standards both athletically and academically.

Carissa Mace — Carissa was chosen Girl of the Year because of her outstanding intellectual and acting ability displayed during her four years at Chaffey. Through her efforts in community and school play productions, Carissa has helped aid in the development of culture and often times amusement which has touched the lives of both her fellow students and community members. She has received many honors for her dedication including the Principal's Academic Achievement Award as a junior, the Outstanding Senior Social Studies Student selected by the Social Studies Dept., CSF membership several semesters, and the Outstanding Drama student chosen by the Performing Arts Department. She was also able to find time for several "extra" projects of service to Chaffey such as a Fasti Staff member for two years, Drama Club President, Le Cercle Francais Club Secretary, and a member of Soroptimist Club for two years.

Shining Like Gold

What makes a sealbearer? For one to become a sealbearer, a student must have had to belong to the California Scholarship Federation for four semesters, one in their senior year. Being a sealbearer means more than just being smart. As Jackie Bishop stated, "It shows that I worked long and hard; it shows my accomplishments." It took a great amount of hard work and dedication to school to become a sealbearer. They were the ones who shone like their gold tassels during graduation.

A Chosen Few

To be chosen as one of 1985's graduation speakers was an honor, and many important steps were needed in order to ultimately be chosen. Each applicant was required to submit a typed draft of their speech to the Assistant Principal's Office and then had to be prepared to deliver it to the Selection Committee. Each applicant presented his or her speech to the seven committee members which consisted of the Senior Class Cabinet plus one parent. Each speech was judged according to content and the relevancy of theme. Each speaker was evaluated by their speaking ability, confidence, and enthusiasm. Carissa Mace was chosen as the 1985 Commencement Speaker and Arlene McMichael, Dawn Tanner, and Tawanna Terry were chosen as the Baccalaureate Speakers.

Pursue a Challenge

Only those who met requirements were able to belong to Chaffey's honorary and scholastic organization, the California Scholarship Federation. Membership requirements were good grades (mostly A's and B's) and enrollment in specific courses.

CSF members became sealbearers by being a member for 4 semesters, one in the senior year. Sealbearers received Gold Seals on their diploma and were eligible for several scholarships. Sealbearers were recognized by gold tassels worn at graduation.

Ivy Chain was another organization which was based on scholarship. This organization was composed of junior girls ranking in the top 30% of their class. Ivy Chain formed the honor chain at commencement through which the class of 1984 walked. Marta Steritz stated, "It was a unique experience being on the field and watching friends graduate."

Chaffey Service League, led by Advisor Delores Wilson, provided outstanding service for the surrounding community. They arranged the Mother/Daughter Banquet which helped to bring families closer together. At the Father/Daughter Banquet Cathy Serna's father, Gilbert Serna, was chosen as father of the year. This helped to boost the spirit that made this club so dedicated and helpful to others. Leah Smith expressed her feelings by stating, "I enjoyed helping others and giving my time to those who needed it."

Chaffey Service League also participated in such events as a Christmas Canned Food Drive and donated a Christmas tree to the less fortunate. Furthermore, they organized the Boy and Girl of the Month feature. Carmen Aguilera liked the club because, "Chaffey Service League is unique because we donated our time to the school and our community." With the help of students such as these our school and community were greatly assisted and they were deeply appreciated.

The Junior Class monument

The Juniors were the most enthusiastic class of the year, which was displayed by their victory of the spirit trophy, and their outrageously impassioned participation in rallies

Of the Junior cabinet, class president Tuffer Mayeda commented, "As far as the old orange and black spirit goes, our class has come a long way. We've definitely set an example of class spirit for all the other classes, which will be passed down through the years."

The cabinet was also the sponsor of the Homecoming dance held at Mt. San Antonio College, and they were responsible for decorations at rallies

Vice-President Ava Burt stated, "All of our effort has made everything we've done worthwhile. Chaffey is worth the work!"

Looking Forward

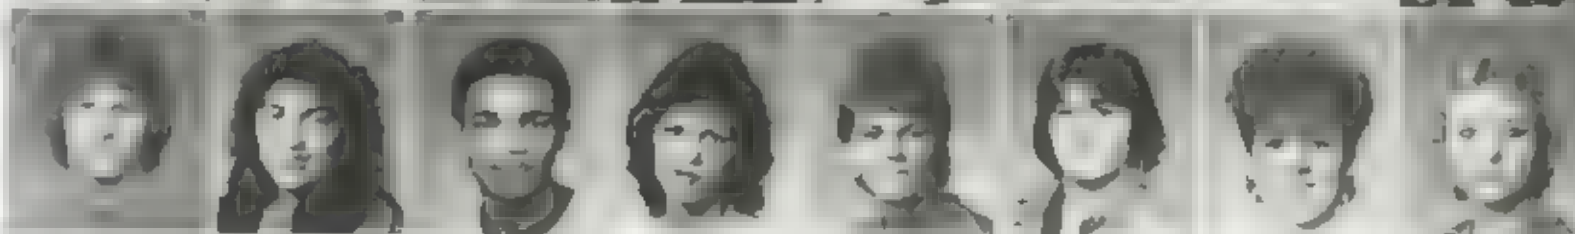

Discovering that next year will be my last year brings me fear. This year was fun. My class was one of the most spirited classes this school has ever seen! But I have worked hard. I have studied, done homework, and taken tests. I never used to know why I did it all, but maybe I know now. Now that I will be a senior, I know what it will mean to be one. Being a senior means that I will have to start planning my life. When someone asks, "What do you want to be?" I can't say, "I don't know" anymore. There will be S.A.T.'s, Achievement Tests, and many directions that my life may go. There will be hard work, but my friends will also be there. I will have the right to be crazy! But I will also have the right to plan my future and be myself.

Did someone say Madonna?

Over the "Borderline"

Sometimes current bands or certain famous people start trends that many students follow. For instance, the Stray Cats and other rockabilly groups brought about a rockabilly revival a few years ago. In the seventies, when disco was the scene, there were a lot of people trying for the "Saturday Night Fever" effect.

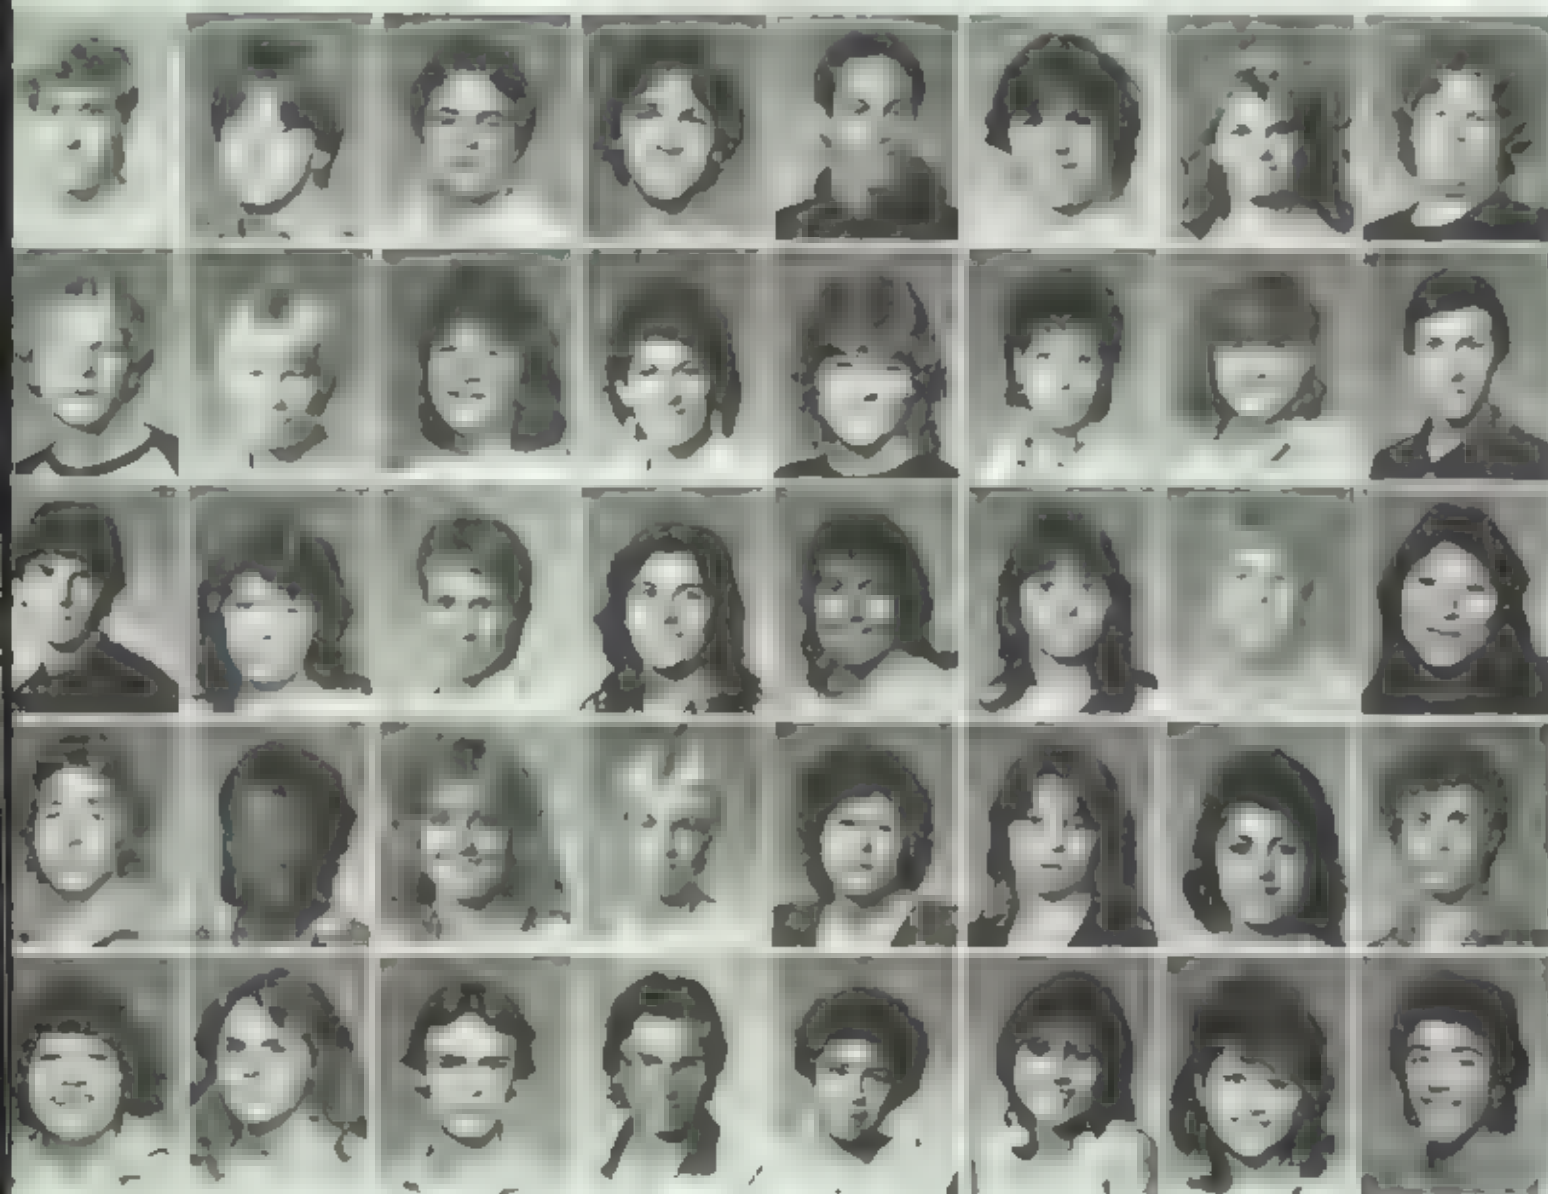

This year, Madonna, a singer and dancer, was the role model for flocks of girls and some guys. With day-glo colors and bleached and permed blunt cut hair, these young girls emulated Madonna. The students at this school had mixed feelings about the new trend.

Isaac Cordova, a Senior, noted "Madonna's cool, and I like the way she dresses, but girls shouldn't try to look like her because they're not being themselves."

Margaret Bouch, of student store fame, says

"It's pretty tacky."

"I like Madonna a lot, and people shouldn't criticize others that dress a little like her because it's just what happens to be in style," added Cindy Brandt.

Real Pee-chee!

s, these are Pee-Chees

Everywhere you look there are pee-chee folders, and on them there are thousands of different things. Pee-chees, to most students, are a billboard where they can express themselves. Pee-chees can tell you a lot about a person. They advertise a person's favorite group, boyfriend or girlfriend and also a person's favorite saying. If you were ever bored in class, you know what a lifesaver your pee-chee can be. You just have to pull it out and let your imagination run wild. These traditional folders have taken all kinds of abuse through the years. They have been sat on, thrown, torn up, lost, but have never lost their popularity. Pee-chees will probably never go out of style and at 25¢ a piece they're a great bargain.

The fine for painting the boiler room is $2000, but if you take a look at it, you can see that a few people decided to take the risk and jeopardize their life savings as well as their lives

An anonymous painter gives this account

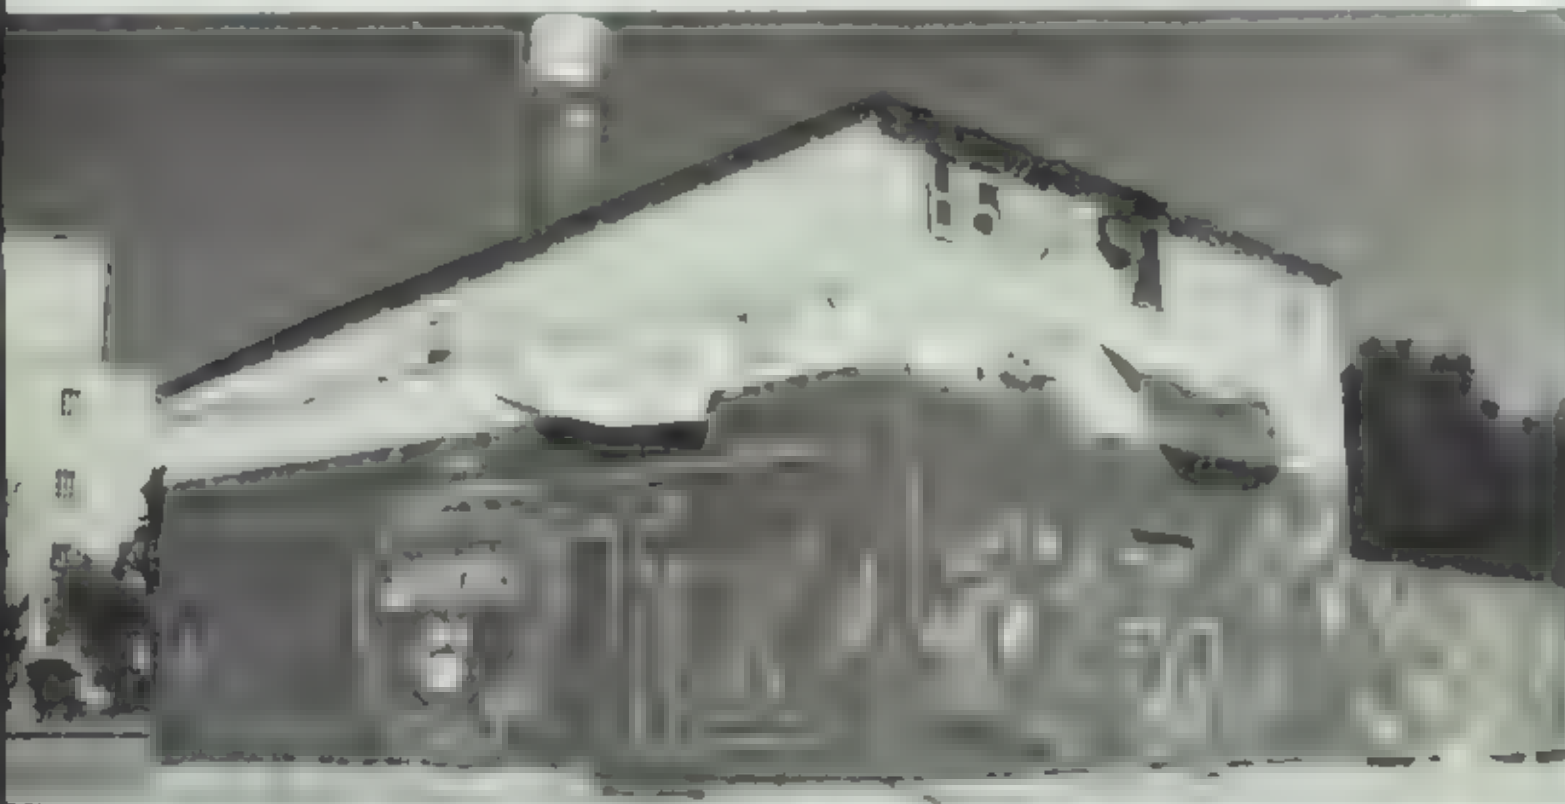

"Getting up at two in the morning in the ice cold with about thirty sweatshirts on, your least favorite on the outside, you go down to the school with spray cans clanking as you walk. The guy in front of you is carrying the extension polls with the paint cans, buckets, rollers and miscellaneous items like screwdriver, string and walkie talkies. Then you get to climb the seven foot fence trying to make as little noise as possible. This is quite a difficult task. Once over, you set your stuff on the concrete planters

Now organized and somewhat composed, you hear a car drive up to the gate. At this point, the best strategy is to run!! After sprinting about three blocks, you come back to finally paint it

The next day, there's blue paint all over, your sneakers and under your fingernails. When asked who painted the boiler room, you simply shrug and say, "I dunno, but it sure looks good."

This is what it's all about

The purpose of Spirit Week and Spirit Night was to build class identity and spirit for the winning of the Spirit Trophy. All classes, Senior, Junior, Sophomore, and Freshmen showed their spirit throughout the week and made it one of the most spirited and enthusiastic weeks in many years at Chaffey.

The week's activities built up a sense of competition which increased the pressure of the Class Yell during Spirit Night. All of the classes put everything they had into their cheer, but in the end, the Juniors had won the yell. Led by the Junior President, Tuffer Mayeda, the Juniors proved to all of the other classes that they were the loudest and most spirited of all.

Tuffer Mayeda later added, "It was the best Spirit Night that Chaffey had had in a long time, and though the competition was tough, I knew the Juniors would emerge victorious."

The Chaffey High School Alumni also came out to the game to show their spirit by creating a Chaffey Tiger float to ride in during the Spirit Parade. Dr. Stine stated at the Spirit Rally, "You will be a Tiger for the rest of your life!"

Spirit Boosters

Mr. David Stine, a large contributor to our rising spirit is escorted onto the floor by Mascot Shannon Brennan.

A large part of the Chaffey tradition relies on spirit. Maintaining this spirit, however, has not always been an easy task. Many groups on campus made this somewhat impossible job their purpose.

Student government, consisting of Activities Board and Executive Council spent long hours taxing their imaginations to plan enthusiastic rallies, a major ingredient in the spirit-raising process. ASB President, Carmen Aguilera noted, "It really is hard work. The outcome — bringing the school together — makes it worth it."

Pep Squad was another vital block in the spirit building process. The squad's enthusiasm never drooped. Whether at a game or just sitting in class, they always provided an example of spiritedness. The hard work of these girls, in developing, learning and practicing new routines, often went unappreciated.

Still another vital instrument in spirit boosting was the band. It was up to them to set the mood. Whether peppy, hopeful or jubilant, the band knew the score — and played it right. David Sparks, Pep Band leader added, "The appropriate music at the right time can really bring the fans alive."

Last, but far from least, were the players that made up the many Tiger teams. From Varsity Football to girls' Tennis, they gave us reason to be proud of our school. They showed us, through their determination and unsurmountable spirit that being a Tiger was something to be proud of.

Turmoil Takes Its Toll

The 1984 Varsity Tigers season started off in an unexpected fashion and their overall record of 1-9 startled many supporters of the program. The team's first major setback of the year was when Ray Stark, entering his 20th year as the head coach at C.H.S., resigned two days before the first game of the year. Jim Reno became the interim head coach the next day, with the main task of trying to keep his inherited football players from giving up for the season. There were mixed feelings among the squad, but no one quit and all decided to go on with the season.

Everything came together for the Tigers during their Homecoming game, when they completely revamped their offense from the wishbone to the power-I. Some key players who made this offense work were: Junior quarterback Robert Olmos, Senior tailback Larry Ellison and Junior split-end Chris VanDuin who both earned 2nd team all-league honors, and Senior Mike Schneider who was an honorable mention offensive lineman on the all-league team

From the beginning, the Tigers forte was its defense. Some key Junior players were inside linebacker Chico Garcia, nose-guard Ernesto Jacuinde, defensive-end Mike Rodriguez, and free-safety Robert Olmos who earned 2nd team all-league honors as a defensive back. Key Seniors were: Larry Ellison and Donny Brubaker at the corner-back positions, defensive-end Dan Christian, and strong-safety Lance Johnson who earned 1st team all-league honors as a defensive back

Even though the season was not a complete success in the record book, the general feeling of the squad was very positive and the members learned a lot about turmoil and the hardships people may face in life

Putting Forth Their All

It was an unusual start for Coach Jim Reno and his Sophomore football team. Many things were different; the practices were held with the Varsity team. The Sophomores seemed to have been a little cheated as far as coaching goes, because their head coach, Jim Reno had to divide his time between two teams, Sophomore and Varsity. This had some affect on the team, but they had a really good attitude of, "Wait until the second half," expressed by Rene Munoz.

This is exactly what the team did. The second half of the season was filled with victories. "We are really doing better; the line gives good protection," stated John Duncan. One of the things that led to the team's successful completion of the season was the improving of the line led by George Olive. This also gave John Duncan, the quarterback and captain, an opportunity to improve. Speed in the backfield helped the team a lot, too. The team's biggest thrill came in winning their game (6-0) over Alta Loma and clinching 2nd place by narrowly beating Claremont (21-19) in the last game of the season. Winning can't be solely attributed to a few key players, everybody on the team gave support, the guys on the sidelines shouting words of encouragement to their teammates, who sometimes had to give every effort they had, to continue play. The season can best be summed up in these words by Noah Kooiman, "It's great to win!"

A Promising Future

Although the 1984 Chaffey freshman football campaign had its flaws, the team's season did start out well. Wins against Pomona, Redlands and Arcadia early in the season showed that the freshman squad had the ability to win many of their future games. Also the emergence of players like lineman Mark Alvarez and defensive back Mike Williams greatly contributed to the team's early success. Unfortunately, penalties, inexperience and overall bad luck struck the Tigers and the team suffered several losses at the hands of their opponents.

The coaches, noticing that a change was needed, set up a rigorous training program for their squad. Headed by coaches Tom Graham, Forrest Anderson, and Ruben Lara, these workouts stressed "the fundamentals of the game," according to Coach Tom Graham. Slowly, the team started to play better and more up to their capabilities. Close games against Upland and Claremont demonstrated this. Despite losing these games, however, the team did end on a high note. By playing freshman football, the squad not only gained leadership capabilities and team spirit, but also experience that will be valuable to the Chaffey High School varsity football program in the future.

Taking Their Act on the Road

The girls' cross-country season was quite successful, especially after earning fourth place in the League Finals. "I'm really surprised that we did so well," exclaimed Gina Carroll. Outstanding Freshman runner, Lydia Edroza, took fifth place in the Finals. "This was my first year running, and most likely, it will not be my last," announced Kim Gravener, a freshman. Other team members included Stephanie Fagan, Kim Shea, and Matilda Martinez. "This year's team was, without a doubt, one of the best I have coached," added Coach Mike Arenas. "I think everyone was quite surprised by their accomplishments and their abilities."

Although the cross-country team did not have a very successful season in terms of the win-loss record, there was team spirit among the athletes. "Everyone cheered each other on, no matter the position of a runner in a race," added Erin Sullivan. The most valuable players were Albert Aleman and Tran Dung, who both did quite well in the League Finals at Mt. Sac. The team was one of new faces and talent, only John Gravener, a junior, returned for a second year. Coach Gary Ovitt reported this about the team, "We were a young team and we have time to improve for next year." Georg Zulch, Chaffey's exchange student from West Germany, claimed "Running in America is groovy." Other members of the team were Issac Coronado, Jerry Leboeuf, Mike Flores, Chris Meservey, Ruben Ornelas, Sean Simington, and Ray Wooten.

Tennis Is a Tough New Racket

*A*lthough the girls' varsity tennis was not a spectacular success in terms of matches won, the team learned more than what winning was about. They discovered the work it took to get there. "All the girls that came out this year had little or no experience," noted Coach Donna Watson. From the first day forward these girls learned first-hand what the game of tennis was all about

They learned that it was more than just running around on a court wearing a white shirt with an alligator on it, and hitting little, fluffy yellow balls. "We didn't think it was going to be this tough," the team announced one day during a session of forehands. The first day of practice was not like anything they had ever experienced. "At first we just messed around and didn't take the game seriously, but when we started to play other schools we changed our attitudes," claimed Diana Martinez.

The overall lessons learned this year were the values of teamwork sportsmanship, and most of all, that tennis is hard to play

Enthusiasm, Talent Carry Tigers

The game will start in an hour. The gym is empty and silent. In an hour, Chaffey's volleyball team will clash with Don Lugo High. It will be the second to last game of the season.

It has been a less than perfect season, with frustration being the key word. Like the stick man in the Cheerio's commercial, the team starts out with great enthusiasm and vigor, to build a lead, but in the end they just run out of umph. Sigh

However, though the home team is down, the fans are not. "Let's go ladies! Don't worry, you'll get the ball back!" comes a yell from the ecstatic mother of Kerrie Feldar. Mrs. Feldar could be found, like many parents and admirers of the sport, on Fridays and Wednesdays at home games, cheering the Lady Tigers on. Occasionally, nomadic football players would trudge into the South Gym, offering their support and making their presence felt

The first game will feature the varsity team, instructed by rookie coach Jo Remender. A coaching crisis prevented the volleyball team from starting practice until September, while other teams started in the summer, and Coach Remender and J.V. Coach Beth Anderson had little time to mold the teams into cohesive units. Among the returnees were varsity Captain Deanna Mulverhill, Captain Melissa Ramos, and Mary Gross

The J.V. team will follow, with Coach Anderson in charge. Of her team, she related, "They have a lot of talent; they are very co-operative, and they put up a good fight."

Inconsistency Plagues Tigers

The Varsity Tigers, coached by Don Nelson, had hopes of making the CIF playoffs representing the Baseline league, but due to inconsistency, these hopes never came true. After losing their first four tournament games, the Tigers came back and mauled Etiwanda before beating the alumni in the last pre-season game.

Leading the Tigers to a victory over Alta Loma and a one point loss to Damien were Seniors Donny Brubaker and Paul Sperling, and Juniors Dick Arabian and Keith Cash. Seniors John Donaldson and Ron Scheenstra who both were injured part of the season added their skills when healthy enough to play. Rounding out the team were Seniors, Marc Buck, Danny Christian, Shaun Davis, John Espinosa, and Trong Tong.

If the Tigers could have played every game as well as against Damien and Alta Loma, then this underrated team would have gone to the CIF playoffs for the first time in boys' Basketball in the last seven to eight years.

The J.V. Is Varsity-Bound

With all of the attention focused on the Varsity team during the 84-85 season, the dedicated J.V. Boys' Basketball team had a tougher-than-usual time getting the recognition that they richly deserved. One main objective of the J.V. team was to give the younger players needed experience to go on to be varsity players. The long hours of practice paid off for these varsity-bound players

Under the direction of four-year coach Chauncey Mann, the J.V. team managed to share some of the limelight with the varsity team. Although they had a slow start in the beginning, the team exploded in the second part of the season. "We have a lot of good talent and we dominated the league in the second half," said junior Joe Porter. Both Porter and Torrance Dozier made notable performances throughout the season, and are indubitably varsity-bound

A Season of Success

The Sophomore Basketball team led by Coach Wally Waters did very well. By the time they were half-way through the season they had won most of their major games. Winning scores such as 49-39 against Buena Park, 46-36 over Upland, 53-35 over Alta Loma, and 65-48 against Claremont helped the team to keep its Great Tiger Spirit. One of the team's season highlights was when they won third place and a trophy at the Sunny Hills Christmas Tournament. Coach Wally Waters summed up the successful season when he stated, "This year's Sophomore team had several good athletes that contributed to the program. With a little more experience and playing time these players should help Chaffey Varsity in the future."

Unity Means Success

Teamwork was the primary asset of the Freshman boys' basketball team. They worked as a single unit, functioning in perfect harmony throughout the season. Despite a lack of experience, they worked hard to attain a well-earned final record.

Coach Dan Arretche was partly responsible for maintaining a "teamwork" attitude. He inspired such players as Ryan Balwochus who stated, "If we stay together as a team, we can make it to the top." The Freshmen still needed to gain a bit of experience, but when their optimistic spirit and obvious skill were considered, the future seemed quite promising.

Lady Tigers Find Success

The season for the girls Varsity Basketball was one of success. The girls accomplished the feat of winning 11 games overall and 8 games in the league. Tawanna Terry and Deana Mulverhill were the most valuable players, both providing the team with great scoring and rebounds. Other returning Varsity players were Bridgette Ealy, Sharon Allbritton, Tish Fort, Diane Carroll and Melissa Ramos. New faces were Tina Arretche, Denise Martinez, Laura Verret, Jeanette Brown and Linda Carroll. "I would have to say that because Coach Reynaga drilled us on speed, rebounding and shooting is why we did so well," quipped Melissa Ramos. Coach Joe Reynaga and his team made it a successful season.

Varsity Hopefuls

The girls' Junior Varsity Basketball season was a bit like the bounce of the ball they used, up and down, in the sense of win-loss, but the season was good in the sense of attitudes and spirit. "We were a real positive thinking team," stated Kelly Russell. The outstanding players were Loni Unga and Patty Guzman, supplying the team with speed and scoring power. "This year was our first year playing, and next year we will have the experience we need," claimed Nikki Wyson. The J.V. team will most likely prove to be a great Varsity team in the years to come, with the help of Coach Abilla.

You've Gotta Want It

The soccer program at Chaffey has undergone a great deal of change in the past couple of years. The Varsity team was now fully outfitted with two uniforms, a soccer ball, sweats, and a traveling bag to carry equipment.

Leading the team were captains, Paul Wilson, an all league performer and Art Arellano. Other all league players were John Alvarez and Lance Johnson. The season started off great but "We ran into a lot of trouble playing in the mud," retorted Paul Wilson. "Soccer is not only physically demanding but a good mental attitude is also necessary." "We had to want to win, and I think we really did," claimed John Alvarez.

Coach John Herrera commented, "In my four years of soccer at Chaffey, three as Varsity coach, I feel that the soccer program has taken a big step in developing the old Tiger tradition of competition and school spirit."

"This being my last year with the soccer program, I sincerely hope that the athletes of Chaffey High will continue to improve these qualities along with the Tiger heart and desire that it takes to win."

Changes Bring Victory

Doing push-ups and avoiding jingles seemed to be the alternative motive to dominating the Baseline League for the Junior Varsity Soccer Team. "This year's team has more talent than ever, but our attitudes have to change," added Coach Al Noseworthy.

As their outlook changed, so did their seasonal record. Well into the midst of the league games, the Junior Varsity had maintained an undefeated record. They kicked off their running streak with a series of impressive victories. The most memorable game was the 3 to 0 victory over Damien. "It was the first time the Chaffey Jay-Vees had defeated Damien in seven years," said Coach Al Noseworthy. Yet these morale boosters proved to be more and more destructive to the team's attitude. "We got to be extremely overconfident after defeating Damien the week before. We didn't even begin to take Upland seriously, and nearly had an unnecessary loss," claimed the team captain, Tuffer Mayeda.

When You're Hot, You're Hot

"The quality of the players has gotten much better in the past year," stated Ben Lautenslauger, head of the Freshmen/Sophomore Soccer Team. The team had great success, contrary to the meager two-win season of 1983-84. Their winning 7-2-1 record was kicked off with two solid victories against Upland and Alta Loma.

During the Tiger's only tie at Claremont High School, the team encountered the most humorous play of the year shaking off any doubts of the draw. "I substituted Ricky Johnson in at fullback late in the game. A high ball came right to Rick. He went to trap it with his knees, but it escaped right up the middle. You had to be there," exclaimed Coach Ben Lautenslauger.

Ricky Johnson summed up the great success of their season, "We definitely know what we are doing. When we're hot, we're hot. And when we're not, we're not."

Girls' Soccer Successful Early On

The girls' Varsity Soccer team started out on a very good note. Under the direction of Coach Richard Riley, the team has sharpened its skills and improved its attitude from what it was last year. With the return of players like Stephanie Fagan, Denise Dryden, Jackie Bishop, and Jenny Collier, the team has also encountered surprising success early on in the season. Victories against such teams as Fontana and Ontario earned the girls a trophy and a second place showing in the finals of the Garey Girls' Invitational Soccer Tournament. Also a big win against Gladstone proved to be a confidence builder for the team. Center-fullback and Team Captain Jackie Bishop noted of her team's play: "We work well together as a team, and that accounts for the good season we're having."

The J.V. squad, under the coaching of Emil "John" Drescher, a.k.a. "Mr. D.," were working on developing the fundamentals needed to play competitive soccer. Running laps, improving skills, and breaking in a new goalie were the main concerns of Coach John Drescher and his team this season. Players like Kim Shea and Melinda Saccone have made the most progress this season and will probably be seen on the Varsity squad in years to come.

Improving With Age

The Varsity Baseball team, under the direction of Coach Jim Reno and Assistant Coach Wayne Redfearn, overcame the handicap of being a very young team, and was able to finish the season with an impressive record, both in tournaments and in the league.

The team was led by senior captains Randy Galvez and Mike King, was supported by returning seniors Mike Coulman, Gabe Ruth" Hernandez, and Reuben Hernandez, and returning junior Robert Thomas. However, juniors dominated the team, with there being seven junior starters in all. In a statement by Coach Reno, he said "With only four seniors on the team, the juniors are getting plenty of valuable playing time and experience."

The squad got off to an early start, testing their skills in the Chaffey District Tournament. In a pitcherless duel, they came out ahead 1-0 against Alta Loma, securing a third place finish in that tournament.

Pitcher and right fielder, Mike Coulman, noted that the team is a young one, with a lot of talent and strength. He showed even more enthusiasm for next year's team, citing many of the juniors on the team. "Overall, we were very good, but in the future, we'll be even better."

Unity and Spirit

The 1985 J.V. Baseball team led by Coach John Herrera was full of new potential and some key veteran players. Although the team was a little low on spirit, they had much unity which helped them in some special games such as the first play-off game against Pomona, which they won 6-4. The team was full of good players, pitchers like Tom Martin, Anthony Montoya, and Chris Mishaan and the veteran players from last year like Ron Desormiers, Steve Ingram, Wayne Krager, and Rod Small.

Coach John Herrera's great coaching was helped by his involvement in the community baseball program, which helped to build a strong program here at Chaffey. His feelings for the 1985 J.V. team were expressed when he said, "The future of Chaffey's baseball is very bright and promising."

Optimism Helps Tiger Season

John Gonzales makes an easy out.

The 84/85 Frosh Soph baseball team had an optimistic looking season from the start. "This year's team shows great potential, both in pitching and hitting. We are looking forward to another successful season," speculated Coach Thornhill.

Returning players Paul Blaine and John Gonzales with their leadership qualities were definite assets to the team, as were the outstanding abilities of Felix Figueroa, Ray Moreno, Kirk Olmos, and Argas Ortiz. With the combined talents of players like these, it is no surprise that everyone had such high expectations for this enthusiastic group.

The 1984-85 Varsity Softball Team was a team of success. Their near-perfect season was a pure product of the spirit the girls possessed. The beginning of the season was marred by the teams size because most of the girls were playing in the Varsity Basketball C I F's

Promising players were Nikki Wyson, Melissa Ramos and Denise Martinez. Coach John Bratta noted that he "could not really say who was Most Valuable Player because the team as a whole was great." "With all the spirit we had, we were winners anyway you look at it," stated Melissa Ramos.

Junior Varsity teams have always lived in the shadows of the Varsity teams, but the Girls' Junior Varsity Softball Team stood on their own. "I was surprised by our achievements this season," stated Patti Aguirre. "As a team, we could not believe our accomplishments." Outstanding players, Laura Verret and Deanna Zebro assisted in the team's overall performance. The only returning Junior Varsity player was Laura Verret.

Team captains were Mary MacRill and Laura Verret. "I was quite pleased with the team's performance, and I hope next year's players are as enjoyable as these were," stated Coach Donna Maury.

Youth and Experience Combine

This was supposed to be a rebuilding year for the Chaffey track team, after the loss of many top competitors last year and the addition of a brand new coaching staff. However, this was not the case, and with the team unity of both the boys and girls, the running Tigers put together a successful season.

The team was filled with an abundance of youth, and a sprinkling of very talented, experienced seniors which made for an excellent mix. Senior Richard Beutter stated, "The team was shorthanded on experience, but we had the talent to succeed." He also commented, "Coach Vasquez did a good job of building the team considering all the freshmen and sophomores we had."

There were just as many talented performers on the girls side of the team also. Girls such as Sophomore middle-distance runner Kim Shea, sprinter Bridget Ealy, Senior sprinter/long-jumper Tish Fort, and Senior shot-putters/discus-throwers Sheryl Jefferson and Deanna Mulverhill.

Perseverance Pays Off

The 1985 Chaffey swim team was comprised mainly of many hard working individuals under the leadership of Head Coach Nora Glasco and her assistant, Coach Beth Anderson. These swimmers put forth a lot of effort, swimming both on hot days and cool ones, in warm water and even in water that seemed to be near the freezing point. Mike Manning, the team's leading freestyler and backstroker put it this way, "Swimming is a lot of hard work, with little or no recognition, only personal satisfaction." This seemed to be true of the thoughts of many of the other swimmers. Other hard-working returning lettermen and women are David Labby, Joe Hess, and Robin Hemry, breaststokers, Sandy Bakila, backstroker, and Tara Klootwyk, freestyler and butterflyer. These are just a few of the many dedicated swimmers who keep the sport alive at Chaffey.

Gaining Needed Experience

The Varsity Tennis Team was a very young team, with only one returning senior, Ron Scheenstra. When asked about the team, Ron replied, "It is a young team, but this year should be one of the better seasons since I have played."

With the stiff competition of Upland, Claremont, and Glendora the young Tiger Tennis Team became seasoned veterans, gaining valuable playing experience as the season progressed. There were definitely signs of improvement as league play was concluded.

The J.V. Tennis Team, coached by Jack Wenger, had one of the larger teams in tennis at Chaffey for awhile. This enabled the Tigers to compete with the rest of the Baseline League in every match. With the help of the J.V. Teams added experience and the Varsity's youth, the future of Chaffey tennis is bright.

The 1984-85 Activities Board was involved in such activities as planning rallies and dances, approving fund raisers, and was also active in Homecoming and Backward activities.

Dancing for Perfection

The 1984-85 modern dance troupe began the school year with a superior performance in the "Holiday Fling." The company, led by Marian Fulton, consisted of both intermediate and advanced dance performers. They practiced for many hours in both 5th and 6th periods to make their performance perfect.

A new addition to the all-girl dancers was their first male dancer. In his first performance, the "Holiday Fling," James Harling played Santa Claus.

"I think that the idea that a guy has joined the dance class is great," expressed Diane Brown.

In their May performance, members of the modern dance club Orchesis performed extremely well. They danced to various types of music and the audience was pleased.

With a Voice of Singing

Two levels of chorus entertained Chaffey's students: mixed chorus and festival choir

Mixed chorus was held during third period with approximately thirty people in attendance. They sang on numerous occasions including caroling at Baldy Village, at school, and at a performance in the Holiday Fling

To become a member of festival choir, an audition with Mr. Walters was required and a free fifth period. This choir, which consisted of fifteen members, sang in many performances such as the Holiday Fling and Spoon River Anthology. Other off-campus concerts were scheduled as well, making those involved very busy. "Being in festival choir was a lot of work, but I had a lot of fun, too!" exclaimed Leslie Cory.

Before the Curtain Rises

Even though the stage crew did not get much recognition, they were a vital part of the successful programs put on in Chaffey's auditorium. With the help of Richard Shetley and Mike Flores, Advisor Mr. Richard Nelson, was able to get scenes ready for show stopping performances.

The class met sixth period, but to be a part of the stage crew a person had to be interviewed and accepted by Mr. Nelson. "You must be good material for the class," added Mr. Nelson, "and all grades are based on participation."

Mr. Nelson, the House Technician, and Richard Shetley, the Light and Sound Technician did a lot of running around to make sure that nothing went wrong to ruin the performance. As a result of their efforts, it was a great year with great performances.

Richard Shetley shows that Stage Crew is not all work and that there is relaxation.

Advisor Richard Nelson leads his crew through many outstanding performances.

A Warming Experience

The holiday season was brightened up by a presentation of music, dance and drama

Mrs. Fulton along with her dance troupe leaped and turned to Christmas carols while dressed as dolls and angels. Santa Claus made an appearance along with his helpful elves

Donning their Christmas attire, Mr. Mazur and the Tiger Band provided music atmosphere for this festive occasion

"Little Revette Riding Boots," the play put on by Mr. Palmer and Play Production was outrageously funny and lifted the spirits of all of those in attendance

Dressed in scarves, coats, and mittens, Mr. Walters' chorus sang and danced to all of the traditional songs of Christmas

And together, all of these groups provided an hour of laughter and tradition

Tami Robertson, a modern dancer, stated "The Holiday Fling took a lot of extra time and a lot of patience, but it was well worth it. Everybody really worked well together and had a good time."

The Sound of Chaffey . .

They could be heard at the football games, playing the sounds that inspire victory. They could be heard in Music One practicing scale after scale. Their sound echoed feverishly through the quads during parades. Who are they? The Chaffey Tiger Marching Band, of course.

Throughout the year, this group of 85 or so students, under the supervision of the new band director, Tom Mazur, dedicated long hours of work to make the Tiger Band something the school could be proud of. As well as adding an extra spark to the football games, the band competed in several tournaments including one hosted by Chaffey. In December, the band participated in The Holiday Fling program where they delighted audiences with their yuletide melodies.

In conjunction with the Marching Band, Pep Band was a part of the Chaffey family no one could ignore. Membership varied from week to week (depending on who showed up for rehearsal). Pep Band did just what their name implies, added pep to Chaffey events. Whether it be at a spirit rally or a parade through the campus, they were there providing inspirational music.

"I feel honored to be a part of the Chaffey Band family," is how Tom Mazur expressed his feelings on being the new director of the Chaffey Tiger Band. And it was an honor to have Mr. Mazur join the staff at Chaffey work to make the band better and better. Top Sergeant David Sparks summed up the students' feelings by saying, "It will take some time, but I feel he'll be a good addition to the school."

They Aimed for Perfection

Executing intricate formations to perfection and inspiring school spirit were two goals of the 1984-85 Color Guard. And complete the goals they did. They could be seen on North Quad practicing Monday through Friday during sixth and seventh periods to make sure they could do Chaffey High School justice. They performed during halftime at Friday night football games and at tournaments. They quickly became a well-known and admired part of the Chaffey campus. Their hard work, determination and talent led to a highly successful and colorful year.

New Image, More Spirit

enny Hanley, the new advisor for the 1984-85 pep squad has helped to bring out a new meaning to the word spirit. The pep squad along with the help of the band brought the stands alive during games and rallies, by playing catchy tunes and leading fans in some of their favorite songs like "Shimmy" and "Rowdies."

Along with bringing back the old tradition of singing the Alma Mater, a new tradition was started, the tiger. The Tiger has been seen dancing with the principal, David Stine, and helping to promote

The Fasti Family

Part of the reason why the 1984-85 yearbook was such a success was the closeness of the members of the Fasti Staff. After overcoming a few awkward days in September when all wondered how we would work with these people we barely knew, the Fasti staff endured deadline after deadline, and during all of this, became One Big Happy Family.

Under the watchful eye of the patriarch advisor Gary Simpson, and Editor Angie Taylor, Assistant Editor Laura Vaught, Activities Editor Patti Hewitt, Class/Faculty Editor Tyler Campos, and Sports Editor Donny Brubaker, each staff worked long and hard to meet those looming deadlines, preparing themselves for the arrival of our trustworthy (and patient) representative, Jane Kasel.

Unfortunately the Fasti Family was no exception to the commonly known fact that families don't always get along. The pressures of deadlines inevitably affected our dispositions, and problems such as missing pages and pictures tended to make us all a bit irritable.

Despite all of our quarrels, seeing the finished product was enough for us to realize that our efforts had been for a good cause. The Fasti itself was a success, and the relationships we formed as the Fasti Family will most certainly be lasting.

A Tradition Restored

*A*fter an absence of four years, the long tradition of a Chaffey High newspaper returned. The first edition, appearing November 2, 1984, marked the beginning of a whole new Tiger Rag.

It took awhile to get the new journalism class organized. The new twenty-one member staff had to learn the basics of journalism and the fine points of newspaper organization. They met every day during sixth period and dedicated themselves to understanding the newspaper process. Through hard work and determination, the staff pulled together and the result was a fine product of journalistic effort.

The staff had a great deal of leadership that proved to be an extra advantage. Heading this leadership was Ms. Browning, the staff advisor. As well as counseling the staff, she arranged for them to attend newspaper workshop conferences and to have a reporter from the L.A. Times come and speak to them. Student leadership and organization came from Editor-in-Chief Mark Williamson, Managing Editor Elizabeth Donley, and Page Editor Juan Briones.

The 1984-85 newspaper staff set an excellent example for the staffs to come. Ms. Browning summed up the staff and journalism by saying, "Journalism requires curiosity, dedication and creativity. Our staff possesses all three qualities."

Building Themselves a Future!

Chaffey High School has not only proven itself to be an academically-oriented as well. The Building Construction class headed by Mr. John Herrera, Mr. Don Bertucci, and Mr. Herm Zmolek gave students the opportunity to learn a trade as well as gave them the chance to perform their skills. Mr. Herrera agreed by saying "Building Construction was one of the few classes at Chaffey that offered not only an academic atmosphere but also a working experience for seniors who were leaving Chaffey."

Students in the Construction group, along with Mr. Herrera and Mr. Zmolek, dragged themselves out of bed early on the weekday mornings and drove to the construction site in Montclair. There they began to construct the frame of the house along with the help of students from other schools. The schools that also participated in the building of the house were Bonita, Chino, Claremont, and Pomona High Schools. These students worked there for about three hours every morning, thus giving them time to get the house completed.

While many students were working at the house, other students were at school building the cabinets to be placed in the house. This group was led by Mr. Bertucci. These students would break up into groups, and each group was responsible for building three or four cabinets each. Mr. Bertucci gave his opinion of the class by stating "It was a fun class to teach because the students were in for a longer block of time on weekdays, and also on Saturdays, so it gave me time to get to know everyone personally."

This class attempted to give students the education they needed for possibly starting a business of their own someday. Chris Johnson commented, "I think it was a good class because it helped you develop a skill and showed you what you could accomplish with a little effort." High schools can help students this way by showing them that business achievements are just as important as academic ones.

Have Pencil Will Sketch

*B*eing a good artist takes a lot of hard work and dedication. Two examples of this dedication are Will Rivera and Isaac Cordova, who have been involved in the art program since their freshman year.

Will Rivera, a senior, enjoys drawing old paintings from famous artists. In June he will leave for South Carolina for Army Reserve basic training. When he returns, he plans to attend Chaffey College full time. Will plans to major in the police field. Will stated, "I'd like to thank Miss Moncla and Mr. VanDame for helping me improve my art skills."

Isaac Cordova, also a senior, does mostly pencil work. He commented, "I like to draw animals, people, ships, beach scenes, most anything." Isaac has received a few awards for his art work, but his biggest was a drawing he sent to the State Fair and won third place. He is not planning to attend college, but to pursue a career where he can dedicate his life to his art work and something he believes in.

The Quest of Chaffey's Finest

During the week before the Backwards Dance of March 9th, Chaffey's finest performed many formidable tasks to attain the rank of Backwards King. The Court, which consisted of Dan Christian, Joe Hess, Lance Johnson, Armando Leyva, and Art Montoya, strived to achieve their quest as they participated in the Backwards King Parade, the competitions at lunch, and the rally, before the final elections.

The competition consisted of a running course in which each candidate was required to jump rope, race in fins, and jump over wading pools filled with water. This competition combined with the rally, where Jane Fonda's workout made its appearance, helped the students decide which of Chaffey's Finest would realize their quest as reality.

The week ended with the Backwards Dance on March 9th at the Ontario Civic Center. It was hosted by the DJ, John Brinkman. As Art Montoya affirmed, "I know everybody had a fantastic time; I sure did!"

May the Best Class Win

The rallies and class competitions united the students of each class, and once again, the Number One class rose above the rest

Points were awarded for rally and lunch competitions, decorations, and the spirit yells. Each class was awarded for their standing

Not only are these rallies fun, but very educational, as Kate Artunian proved "Through class competition, I have gained the valuable experience of putting on boxershorts and a bra while blindfolded."

Art Montoya expressed his feelings by saying, "The organization of this year's rallies have made them more exciting and fun to go to."

"Anthology" of Actors

Nelson Palmer's Play Production class has had a long standing tradition of producing excellent works of drama for Chaffey audiences to enjoy. This year was no exception. Along with the regular class time during fifth period, the class devoted many hours of their free time to ensure their production of Edgar Lee Masters' Spoon River Anthology would be a success.

The Chaffey production which fifth period classes saw was a shortened version of Charles Aidman's stage adaptation of Edgar Lee Masters' 1915 publication. The production's moods were enhanced by American folk music sung by Mr. Walters' Festival Choir. Four actors and four actresses played multiple parts, portraying characters who spoke from their graves in the Spoon River, Illinois cemetery. The characters had lived in Spoon River between 1850 and about 1910 and usually commented about the meaning of their lives and tell how they died.

The cast of Spoon River could never have gotten the production off the ground were it not for the undying patience and guidance given by Mr. Palmer; "He lets you develop the character on your own and never pushes you if you're having a problem," commented Bart Coffman. Another asset to the production was Assistant Director April Thompson. Whether it was running lights for the show or simply giving an encouraging smile, April was always there when the cast needed her.

With few hitches and lots of fun, Play Production made Spoon River Anthology a huge success.

Lisa Felix and Eric Fagan express their undying love, a common theme in Spoon River.

Battle of the Sexes . . .

That was the title of second semester play production's project. The play consisted of 7 short scenes and poems, all reflecting an aspect of male-female relationships. The skits ranged from a farcical one-act about visitors at a hotel room to the conversation between an older, senile couple. Director Nelson Palmer commented on the mood of the play, "Even though the material is funny, it gives us something to think about as we try to work out our own personal relationship

Child's Play

Over one thousand elementary school students were entertained first semester by Advanced Drama's production of three children's plays. The students from Elderberry, Edison Hawthorne and Sycamore elementary schools, and Baptist pre-school were invited by Mr. Palmer to see the class' productions of The Three Bears, Sody Sallyraytus and Only One Ant. The elementary school students were enchanted by the magic of the stage and the Chaffey students enjoyed performing for the children, as noted by Senior Dan Schuck, "I love to act for little kids. It's a lot of fun to see the expressions on their faces."

Breaking Into Culture

Culture is a great part of the M.E.C.H.A. and B.S.U. students on campus. These students have studied and realized how their cultures make them think and feel. With help from their advisor, Dennis Ruiz, the intercultural students portrayed their backgrounds. Especially among the Black Student Union, Black Awareness came alive. The assembly that was held on February 22nd made the audience roar. The history of Martin Luther King Jr., read by Tawanna Terry, and a breaking routine done by several B.S.U. students were two of the performances that stood out. Filled with excitement, the Black students displayed their way of fun. A dance followed the assembly that evening and Denise Taylor was crowned B.S.U. Queen. She explained, "I was very surprised. I thought there might be a mistake."

Cinco De Mayo was a celebration for the M.E.C.H.A. Club during the week of April 29 through May 3. Students expressed the part the Mexican culture played their lives. An assembly was held on May 1st which gave the student body a chance to see how Cinco De Mayo is a festive occasion. M.E.C.H.A. students participated in lunchtime food sales as well as the dance held on May 10th in the cafeteria where Stacey Rivas was named as Cinco De Mayo Queen.

"I enjoyed being the M.E.C.H.A. and B.S.U. advisor this year, but it was a lot of hard work. By seeing the results of the activities we did, I feel terrific," stated Dennis Ruiz.

October 22nd through the 26th was a very hectic week for homecoming candidates, Diane Brown, Michele Buck, Jeanette Campbell, Tawanna Terry, and Camile Vargas.

The homecoming activities consisted of a triathlon and a parade during lunch, the kidnapping of the candidates, a rally, and the dance on November 3rd

Camile Vargas, winner of the triathlon, thought it was, "hilarious!" She enjoyed herself and felt, "The activities were very well organized."

Diane Brown exclaimed, "The activities were great! They were well planned, fun, and exciting."

The homecoming activities ended with the dance at Mount Sac. Although it was a busy week, everyone helped and made it a very successful event

Though Some May Change, the Tradit

The Chaffey Marching Band received a new band director, Mr. Tom Mazur. Only twenty-six years old, he has already taught for three years. He plays the French Horn along with numerous other instruments. "I feel very inspired by our new band director," Kelleigh Griffin affirmed.

A tradition in the band that will never change is the crowning of the Band Royalty. The Band Royalty was Kelleigh Griffin and Andy Madison. "I feel honored to be chosen as this year's Band King," declared Andy Madison.

The band played at home football games during half-time and entered many tournaments. With Mr. Tom Mazur, the Chaffey Marching Band will go far in performance.

Travels to a Distant Land

When asked what he thought of California, Georg Zulch from West Germany replied, "It's great! I loved the beach, sun, and weather. But most of all, I enjoyed my trip to Disneyland."

Georg occupied his free time by becoming involved with the Chaffey soccer and cross country teams. In Germany, however, Georg spent most of his free time with his girlfriend, Eva, sking, and wind surfing.

Pedro Lisboa arrived in California from Rio de Janeiro, Brazil. He chose to come here because it reminded him of Brazil. While at Chaffey, Pedro played on the soccer and tennis teams.

Clubs the Key to Service

*W*hat do you call a girl who really cares and wants to help serve not only her school but also her community? A Keywanette, of course.

The Keywanettes were a very active club on Chaffey's campus. They've sold "grams" to spread the spirit of all the holidays and acted as hostesses for several GWS and sport functions.

Supporting school functions is only half of what the Keywanettes do. They sold candy canes to help support the Adam Walsh Foundation, cosponsored a canned food drive, collected items for the Hillview Home for Abused Children, and helped promote the language, speech, and hearing month.

Advisor — Mrs. Demetrion-Boatright, described the Keywanettes by saying:

Helping to boost school spirit is the main purpose of Pep Club. Pep Club is one of the many school and community service clubs on campus. They helped promote school spirit by assisting the Pep Squad during rallies and at games. They showed the football team that the school is behind them one hundred percent by decorating the locker room before home games. Pep Club helped the community this year with Christmas on Euclid, hosting the Tournament of Bands and the Special Olympics.

According to Mary Mount, Pep Club President, "The Pep Club has been helpful in provoking school spirit by helping plan and decorate for the athletic banquets, team locker rooms, and the Tournament of Bands."

The Class of '87 was very active, sponsoring the first dance of the year, the Welcome Dance, which was held after the football game against Canyon High School. The band was the Big Beat and was very popular with those who attended the dance. There was one episode which occurred on Spirit Night when the Sophomores may have been a little too enthusiastic, if there was such a thing. They were participating in halftime activities by parading around the track on a truck. All of their jumping and screaming won them the most enthusiastic but they also had to deal with a smashed truck! The class of '87 also had a fund raiser in the Spring to get ready for the Homecoming Dance as Juniors next year.

I've Got My Own Way

Becoming a sophomore was really important to me. It meant that I was no longer lost. It meant this was my last year of P.E., and most importantly — it meant that I was no longer a freshman! This year was a time for me to get involved in the school. Whether it be band, sports, or student government, the sophomores were getting involved. At the end of this school year, I can look back and remember that I had fun. After leaving green and going to blue, I can look forward to maybe even happier times as I go my own way.

Jenny: Getting Involved

For those who know or didn't know Jenny Collier, she was one of the 681 Sophomores who attended Chaffey. She has been involved in both sports and student council. She was one of the Sophomore senators who made the class of '87 one of the most spirited classes

As senator, she was in charge of getting all the things necessary for class competition for the sophomore class. Getting set up wasn't as easy as it sounded, it took many days of hard planning and with that frustration. Before the rallies started she had to instruct and get the students excited so that they could be competitive at the rallies

Jenny was just one of the many students who made Chaffey a spirited school

Isn't It Friday Yet?

How dare you do this!

What day do we all look forward to? Well Saturday is nice, but it is an indication that our weekend is folding up. Sunday is usually calm and relaxing, but is also the day before Monday, and usually the day we choose to do our "last minute" homework. It is certainly not Monday because that is the day following our cherished weekend, unless, of course, Monday was a holiday, making it a three-day weekend for us. Tuesday would then be the "dreaded" day. Wednesday rates a little bit higher on the list because it is the middle of the week hinting that we've almost made it. On the other hand, if we had just had a three-day weekend, and we were too tired to go to school on Tuesday, Wednesday would be the "dreaded" day. Thursday is the day that motivates us to succeed so that we can make it to, yes, Friday! Friday welcomes us to our weekend. It is our weekend-even when some of us to get a headstart and celebrate our weekend on Friday night, and we can congratulate ourselves for making it. It's all right to thank God it's Friday, but what about thank God for Fridays?

Even though the Freshman Cabinet was only in existence second semester because of scheduling problems, they were still able to get a lot done. They started by having a major fund raiser, which was the January 25th after game dance with D.J., John Brinkman. Money from the dance helped to buy decorations for rallies. They also helped at rallies decorating the Freshman Section and participated in class competition events. Shelly Morris, Freshman president added, "Rallies are fun and exciting"

Laughing at the Past

What an experience it was to be a freshman at Chaffey. The school is a lot different from my junior-high school. Being a freshman meant being lost. So many times I didn't know where I was going. I didn't know the difference from North Hall and South Hall. I didn't know where to buy my lunch or meet my friends. I didn't even know what a boiler room was! But now that the year is over, I can look back at it all and laugh. I know a lot more than I knew at the beginning. Next year, not only will I be going from yellow to green, I will be growing up. I can begin to get involved with the school as I look forward to next year.

Finally Catching on!

In the beginning there was silence heard from the Class of '88 at the rallies. It seemed as if only one or two people managed to whisper unenthusiastically, "Yeah," perhaps a few more clapped and one may have even let a whistle escape. However, this quiet syndrome did not last forever.

After the first three or four rallies, observers caught a few of the Freshman actually standing, and not just because they couldn't see. They became aware of what went on, and more of them became screamers supporting their class.

At the last few rallies, the Freshman finally caught on. They realized there was a class competition and that they were in last place. This was when the screaming really began to be heard, but alas, it was now too late.

Excuses, Excuses

Freshmen, as well as everyone else, had a load of homework on their backs. Backpacks were full of homework to do, and Freshman seemed to have the most original excuses for not having it for class. "I can't give my report because my one year old brother tore my book up," a Freshman explained to Mr. Durian, history teacher.

Students said these things seemed to happen when one least expected them. As teachers agreed, it was always hard to trust a homework buster. "Class is a coffee break, but homework is the job," says Freshman, Ivy Perona. Many students did the job and realized that the results could be rewarding. "Not doing your homework isn't worth it," A.S.B. President Carmen Aguilera replied, "By the time you're a senior, it's a big part of class grades."

A Highlander Turns Tiger

man's world.

If you have seen a vivacious little woman walking through the halls, you've seen our new social studies teacher, Cathy Creeden. Last year, during second semester, Mrs. Creeden substituted for Mr. Pitts math class. She was then hired to teach social studies this past year. The students adore her and the teachers admire her spirited attitude.

With activities such as snow skiing, gymnastics, and dancing, Mrs. Creeden keeps in good shape. She also likes racing in Malibu Grand Prix cars.

After receiving a B.A. degree in psychology from La Verne College, in 1982, she started a family the following year. Spending time with her family is a plus.

Being an extracurricular class taker herself, she strongly recommends ROP. "These classes can turn into jobs," she said. "Life is everything you make it." Previously being a Highlander is history, she has now climbed to a better height, Chaffey. When thinking of our campus, especially its traditions, she says, love it.

Quotable Quotes

Chaffey's teachers have many talents. One of those talents is to invent memorable quotes or funny anecdotes. Here are some of them: Durian — "There's a moral there somewhere." Reeves — "Get this stuff you guys, it's important." Chappell — "We chemists are patient people." Simpson — "I'll be right back in just a minute." Promise — "It can ruin your whole day." Piequet — "And now for your viewing enjoyment we have that all time favorite film of Chaffey students and teachers alike." Barker — "Coincide, coincide. Come together come together." Bass — "These are not hard problems people." Shields — "No no no, we don't do that in this class." Palmer — "When in doubt, fake it out." Epperson — "Halftime, halftime." Adele — "Hey that's great." Toomay — "Are you being a bad little boy?" Cramer — "You'll find that there are a few things I don't know. And that's one of them." Chilcott — "Never assume." Wasserman — "That's the first mistake I've ever made."

Just a minute. I'll get it in a minute demands Mr. Mazar.

Teaching: Just Another Hobby

Anthony Lehman has been teaching at Chaffey for 24 years. Eight of his years were spent as the chairman of the English department. He received his Bachelor of Arts degree in English and American Literature from Pomona College and his Masters from the Claremont Graduate School.

Unlike most teachers, he has written four books entitled, Birthright of Barbed Wire (1970), By Buckboard to Beatty (1970), Westerners Brand Book (1978), and Paul Landacre. A Life a Legacy (1983).

He collects art and books, listens to classical music, reads books, and writes poetry. Besides enjoying educational activities, he loves horseback riding. He especially enjoys his horse, an Appaloosa which he rides for the Los Angeles County Sheriff's Mounted Posse. He is also in the Deputy Sheriff Reserve.

In the past he has been recognized with a Chancellor's Scholarship from U.C. Riverside for summer study at U.C. Santa Cruz in 1983 and won a Fellowship from the National Endorsement for the Humanities in the summer of 1984.

When asked what he liked about teaching he replied, "When and if it happens, seeing a student challenged and excited about learning, is a tremendous reward."

The Gift of Giving

Mrs. Sae Moncla has been Art Department chairperson for 5 years. She began teaching at Chaffey after graduating from Long Beach State with a major in Design. Mrs. Moncla enjoys teaching at Chaffey. She says that it is "stimulating to be around students;" it keeps her young. Since she was in junior high she knew that she wanted to be an art teacher. She likes to know that she is helping people and making them aware of hidden artistic abilities. In her spare time Mrs. Moncla enjoys all kinds of art. She paints, does calligraphy, and even designs clothing. The things that she creates such as paintings and designs are very personal. She never sells any of her art work but prefers to give her art work as gifts.

What has been your most embarrassing experience?

Dave Davis: "My seam ripped and I had to go to a restroom and staple it."

Nelson Palmer: "The curtain opened on the scene of a dying character. His bed had collapsed and he was standing beside it half in costume."

Glen Chappel: "My first year teaching, I dropped a film reel and it unwound across the floor."

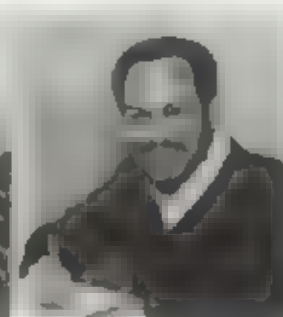

Forrest Anderson: "Before giving a speech at a football banquet, I took a pill for my nerves. I later discovered it was a sleeping pill."

Learning: a Valuable Experience

Roberta Drake became the GATE coordinator after having taught here at Chaffey for eight years

Since taking the job, one of her goals has been to encourage the GATE students to expose themselves to more cultural activities and experiences. They were given the opportunities to do so in such events as Ashland Shakespeare Festival's Taming of the Shrew at Bridges in Claremont, the LA Philharmonic symphony at the Los Angeles Music Center, and Loyola Marymount's Fate of the Earth weekend conference

"It should be cultural enrichment for all," said Ms. Drake. She also felt that exposure to all kinds of activities diminished fears of the unknown, and is a vital part of true education which should be for everybody

"Learning should be valuable for itself alone, not just for making good grades."

Our coordinator believes that everybody with the ability has an obligation to mankind to develop his/her potential to the greatest extent possible. This is of monumental importance in solving the problems humanity faces

"We must think of ourselves as members of the human race, and not be so self-centered. We must make a contribution, or we are the ones who will be hurting."

This is the belief that motivated Roberta Drake to help enrich the lives of GATE students, which hopefully will motivate them in turn to act upon that belief

The Cream of the Crop

Our Chaffey Administration consisted of our new principal, Dr. David O. Stine, two assistant principals, Phil Gosswiller, and John Mendoza.

Dr. David O. Stine graduated from Twenty-Nine Palms High School. He later graduated from San Diego State. He received his Doctorate Degree at Northern Arizona University. He's been in education for 24 years and a high school principal for 12 years. In his spare time he enjoys tennis, public speaking, and cooking.

Dr. Stine described his job as principal as "being an energizer, a facilitator and a supporter."

Phil Gosswiller has been assistant principal at Chaffey for 3 years. He was responsible for the coordination of student activities, maintenance and grounds of the school, testing programs, expenditures of the school budget, the senior class cabinet.

Mr. Gosswiller graduated from Mark Keppel High School where he participated in gymnastics and track. He also graduated from Cal Poly where he received his BS and from LA State with a MA. His favorite past time activities include motorcycle riding, surf fishing, tennis, golf, and reading.

When asked what he liked best about his job he replied, "working with the students."

John Mendoza has also been at Chaffey for 3 years. He is in charge of counseling and guidance, curriculum development, and the master scheduling. He considers his job fun and rewarding, especially when he is able to work with the students and is able to reach out and help them.

Mr. Mendoza graduated from Dos Pueblos High School in Santa Barbara. He went to Santa Barbara City College and Sacramento State University where he received his BA and his MS at Fullerton State University.

In this spare time he found time for painting, ceramics, creative photography, and active and serious racketball playing.

Together the administration has made this school year a worthwhile and enjoyable experience for all!

Adele Vinciguerra

Acting as the right hand of the administration, Chaffey High School's secretaries performed the numerous duties that were allotted them

Cathy Brock commented "In the principal's office there is never a quiet moment, but it is very positive." Adele Vinciguerra liked being able to work with the students and to give them a positive experience while being in high school. Kate Bradford who was described her job as "Challenging," but she loved working for them

Debbie Griffith summed it up for all the secretaries by claiming "The best part of the job was working with the students and the staff

△ "Ah, what a secretary has to put up with," sighs Adele Vinciguerra.

Administrative Changes

It's been more than seventy years since the Chaffey High School District was formed in 1911. During the first year, the Chaffey brothers donated some land and buildings to the district. Since then, the district's number of students has grown from about 400 to 14,000, the budget has also increased from $35,000.00 to more than $35,000,000.00 a year. There has been many changes over the years including the addition of seven high schools including Dominga, Valley View, Alta Loma, Etiwanda, Montclair, Ontario, and Upland. Any changes had to be cleared by the District Administration. It was their job to evaluate and approve suggestions from staff, faculty, and community to improve Chaffey District's Schools.

The Last Word

Tyler Campos gives Carmen Aguilera ideas for her headline

Dear Chaffey Students,

We hope you enjoyed reading the 1985 Fasti as much as we enjoyed putting it together. The process of making the yearbook is a difficult one, and although we tried to eliminate all our errors, we realize we may have overlooked some.

We would like to take this opportunity to address each class individually. Seniors, though you may move on to bigger and better things, we are in hopes that each of you will be a Tiger forever.

Juniors, may you take on your role as the hierarchy with great pride and spirit.

Sophomores, may your new generation bring with it many new traditions.

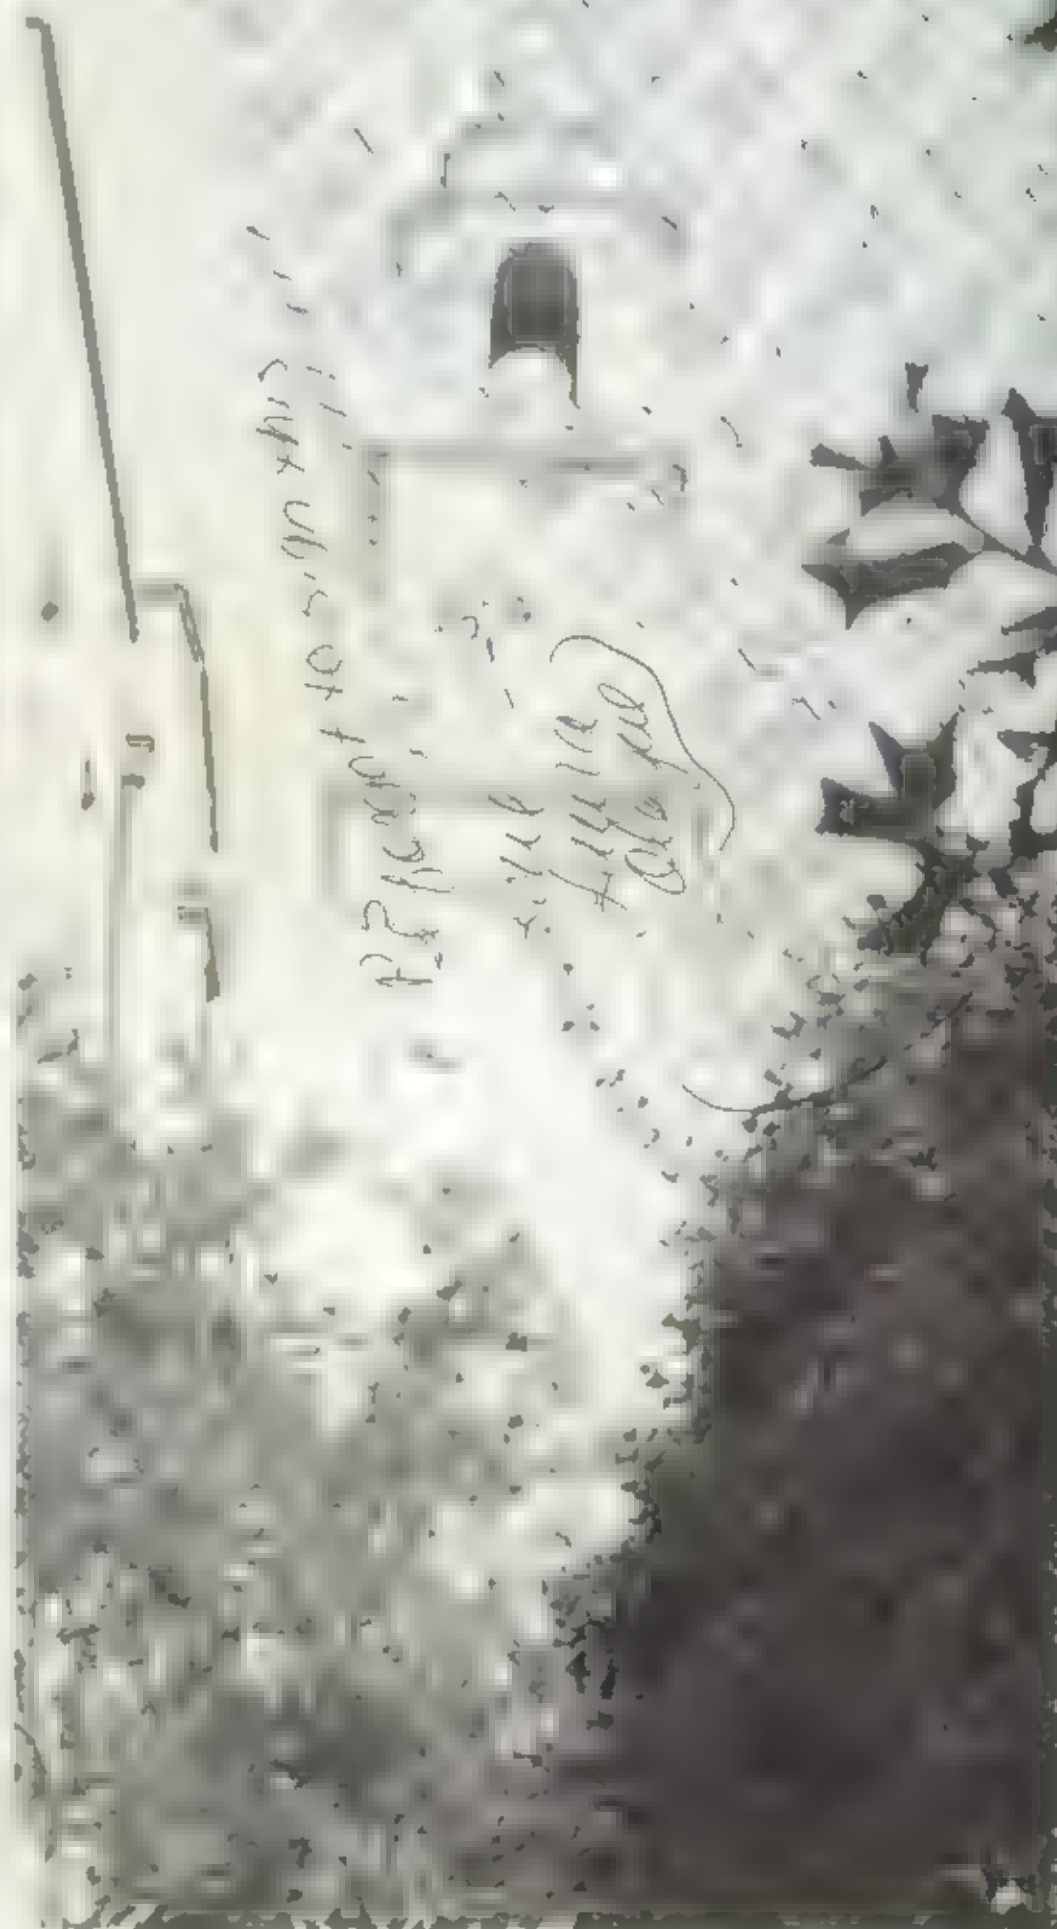

Freshmen, may you continue happily at Chaffey, remaining always true to your heritage.

*Sincerely,
Angela Taylor and
